President's Column

By Daniele Gerard

Three Parks members were treated to a lively and comprehensive debate about congestion pricing at the March 12th meeting. All the speakers did a terrific job; we were fortunate to have such a distinguished panel! Our thanks go out to the speakers in favor—Council Member Melissa Mark-Viverito and Wiley Norvell, Communications Director of Transportation Alternatives—and against—Assembly Member Richard Brodsky and Council Member David Weprin.

We heard a brief report on the situation in Albany from Assemblymember Daniel O'Donnell. Two candidates for State Committee, Bob Ginsberg (the incumbent) and Larry Hirsch also spoke. Matt Bitz of Council Member Inez Dickens's office gave us a quick overview on zoning and the American Institute of Architects' proposal. Many thanks to them and to the membership for a great turnout!

The Club's April 9th meeting will feature an update on Albany from our State representatives, Senators Eric Schneiderman and Bill Perkins and Assembly Member O'Donnell, as well as prepare the Club to make endorsements in upcoming local elections. We look forward to hearing about the new administration, budget negotiations and prospects for other legislation. Senator Schneiderman has represented the 31st Senate District since 1998, Senator Perkins the 30th SD since 2006 and Assemblymember O'Donnell the 69th AD since 2002. Our State Committee Member Lynn Thomas will also speak.

A flyer is included in the newsletter, so please spread the word by posting it in your building. As always, you must be a member in good standing, and current in your dues, to vote in our endorsements. If you haven't paid your 2008 Three Parks dues, there's no time like the present!

SAVE THE DATE for the Three Parks

Benefit—Sunday, May 4th at Meridiana Restaurant, when we will honor Council Members Inez Dickens and Melissa Mark-Viverito and the service workers' campaign Justice Will Be Served. Invitations will be mailed in early April, so keep an eye on your mailboxes and let us know you'll be joining us. Proceeds will fund the Club's storefront in the fall; with skyrocketing rents, we need your support more than ever!

Remember to check the Three Parks website www.ThreeParksDems.org frequently for updates on Club activities and for tabling opportunities, especially as the weather gets warmer.

Finally, on behalf of the Board and the entire membership, I'd like to send our best wishes to Governor David Paterson, who has shown strong leadership under difficult circumstances.

Go Green East Harlem Cookbook Hits the Shelves

By Scott M. Stringer

In January my Go Green East Harlem Cookbook was published, a multicultural feast for the eyes, as well as the palette. With recipes contributed by East Harlem's greatest restaurateurs and community residents, and gorgeous photographs by a group of International Center of Photography grads, the book beautifully portrays the community that inspired it.

The bilingual cookbook features healthy recipes for appetizers, soups, salads, entrees and – yes – desserts. It is the latest of my "Go Green East Harlem" initiatives, which to date include, thanks to Mayor Bloomberg, a new $3.5 million state of the art asthma center that will open this spring, the planting of hundreds of street trees, a new farmers' market on 106th Street, and a "green building" conference for developers, planners and community advocates held in October.

The excitement and ownership that residents feel about the cookbook comes from the sense that we truly can improve our lives through the choices we make – from what we put in our bodies to how we advocate for crucial changes like better air quality. Just as the cookbook reflects the community, Go Green East Harlem is led by a steering committee of neighborhood residents, civic, environmental and business leaders, public health advocates and elected officials.

Steering Committee member Dr. Adam Aponte, whose advice on weight loss is featured in the cookbook, has pointed out that some parts of East Harlem have more fast food restaurants than supermarkets or produce stands. As a result, at North General Hospital doctors have begun seeing seven year olds who are developing diabetes. That is a fully preventable tragedy, one that this cookbook directly takes aim at.

Scott M. Stringer is the Manhattan Borough President.

Judicial Up-Date

By Alan Flacks

This year, there are judicial vacancies in the Manhattan Civil, Surrogate, and Supreme courts. There is a local downtown Civil Court seat on the lower west side. There is one (of the two) Manhattan Surrogate Court judges to be filled. And now there are five vacancies on the 1st District (N.Y. County) State Supreme Court bench.

An additional vacancy just occurred when Supreme Court Justice James Yates announced his resignation (effective April 28th) to become counsel to Gov. David Paterson. Earlier this year, Appellate Division Justice Stephen Crane resigned. This now provides the new Governor the opportunity to appoint two interim judges. Additionally, there is one “open” seat (created by Justice Louis York reaching the mandatory retirement age), and Justices Martin Schoenfeld and Marcy Kahn are both seeking re-election.

The County’s judiciary committee is in the process of forming a screening panel of people designated by heads of various civic and bar associations and law schools to interview applicants for the Surrogate and Supreme Court vacancies. Vilia Hayes, a lawyer with the firm of Hughes, Hubbard, & Reed, has been chosen to be the screening panel administrator.

Testimony to City Council on Congestion Pricing, March 24th, 2008

By Cynthia Doty

My name is Cynthia Doty and I am the community organizer for The Morningside Heights / West Harlem Sanitation Coalition, an environmental education organization and member of the NYC Environmental Justice Alliance and COMMUTE.

The Sanitation Coalition supports the initiatives of PlaNYC and the city's efforts to improve the environment and the sustainability of our city. We believe it is absolutely necessary to reduce all vehicular traffic in this city and vastly improve our public transportation system. Our health depends on it. Our economy and worker productivity depend on it. Our very quality of life depends on it. We must switch our travel patterns away from polluting vehicles and into more environmentally friendly forms of transport. This means increasing public transportation, increasing protected bike traffic, increasing pedestrian travel, and developing non-polluting freight transport.

We support the spirit of the Mayor's plan because it will provide funds to improve our public transportation from increased subway cars and buses to Bus Rapid Transit and Express buses, to improved subway and rail stations, to expanded ferry service. If done correctly, all New Yorkers will benefit from these improvements and everyone, rich and poor, will be able to move around this city with ease, comfort and safety. For us, reducing traffic in Midtown is not as important as improving access to public transit. If the only way we can fund this system is through congestion pricing, then we should do so. But the goal must be to improve transportation for all New Yorkers not just to allow those driving in midtown to move faster. This pricing plan has to be a revenue generator for programs that will really benefit all NYC, especially our underserved areas. We must ensure that all money raised goes for NYC transportation improvements only.

The Sanitation Coalition has a few other concerns. First we must ensure that the rim neighborhoods are not polluted in exchange for reducing the pollution midtown. This happens all too often especially in the environmental justice neighborhoods. Our area is already overburdened with polluting bus depots, a sewage treatment plant, major truck travel as well as highway exits and endless traffic jams. We must not become the place for the extra bus depots or the parking spot for buses before the new depots are built or a parking lot for commuters trying to avoid the congestion zone. The asthma rates are already too high. We can't absorb any more pollutants.

The Council should require all the new buses, including private buses, to be environmentally clean and penalties should be imposed on any that do not comply.

We also urge the Council to address our growing freight traffic by setting requirements for trucks entering the city to be environmentally clean and steering them to certain times of the day or night, with more areas declared truck free zones. Finally, we support the speedy building of Congressman Nadler's Cross Harbor Rail Freight Tunnel.

We urge the Council to seize this opportunity and seriously undertake this challenge. Our city must make changes to the way we move around, not simply because congestion is inconvenient, but because our very health and sustainability depend on it.
